His inspiring, practical, "take-home value" programs channel hope and breakthrough results to all participants and organizations that invite him in to speak.

Ty also appears frequently on local and national radio and television interview programs to discuss practical success and presentation improvement techniques.

Ty Howard's Personal One-On-One Presentation Coaching Session is a unique training methodology that features regular sessions with a qualified and experienced Professional Speaker and Personal Coach.

He conducts most of his coaching sessions over the telephone, and about forty percent in person, after reviewing a client's video recording. This approach allows him to deliver quality coaching and training at a very reasonable cost. The accountability clients feel in this relationship, and the time they are given to practice what they learn, results in a significantly higher level of presentation improvement.

"Until I went through a series of Ty's Personal One-On-One Presentation Coaching Sessions, I didn't know how to effectively hold the attention of an audience for more than 15 minutes. Now, I tell powerful stories, use purposeful humor, get my point across clearly, and—most importantly, have fun while speaking to an audience for 40 to 60 minutes at a time. Truly, an investment worth making!"
